tion. That was carried and there will be another meeting at the hall of the chairman, J. C. Eliel, the evening of the 11th. The Drug Company of Minneapolis who recently addressed the club in this city, was favorably impressed with the work here that up to date has been done and ordered similar meetings at Minneapolis. This was spoken of yesterday as a proof that the influence of the club had extended outside of St. Louis. A vote of this was given yesterday to Mr. Seabury for the use of the rooms where the club occupied during the campaign.

BOURKE COCKRAN FOR THE OUTCOME
"THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY HAS NO FUTURE WHICH IT CAN DETERMINE FOR ITSELF."

W. Bourke Cockran, whose efforts on behalf of the issue so decisively settled on Tuesday were earnest, was at his office in the Drexel Building at Wall and Broad sts., yesterday, as usual, and stored, as he might have termed it, his usual occupation. He was the first that there did seem to be anything to discuss at the present moment, but he was finally led to speak of the contest and to bear upon the possible future of parties as affecting especially the Democratic party.

In reply to questions, Mr. Cockran said "This was not a political contest, in the ordinary meaning of the term. It was an insurrection against the underlying principles of civilization and I believe it is without a parallel in the history of the world. It was an attempt to seize the Government for the purpose of destroying the thing which government was organized to protect. I do not mean to say that all Mr. Bryan's supporters contemplated the overthrow of orderly government, but none the less that would have been an inevitable consequence of their success. If, however, it was disheartening to see one of the great political parties supporting an insurrection against the national order, it was doubly so when the insurrection was one of the most sublime and tactics ever presented in the history of human progress. A movement as dangerous to civilization as ever the world witnessed has been defeated, and, I believe, forever suppressed, without enlistment of a single soldier or the exercise of a single act of coercion. The crisis through which it has just passed was the severest test to which our Government has ever been subjected. The result is the crowning, decisive vindication of democratic institutions.

"I have no opinion to express as to the future of the Democratic party. It has no future which can determine for itself. This election, in my opinion, was not an expression of the people as to whether they would support or oppose the Government to what shall not be done. I do not regard it as a verdict in favor of any specific policy. It was a declaration of the disengagement of the current against the destruction of the Supreme Court, an independent tribunal, and against the nullification or abridgment of the President's power to execute the laws. It was a declaration that the fundamental conditions of civilized society should not be disturbed in this country.

and his party's administration of the Government for the next four years. The message which they may propose and the standard of administration will be the questions on which the people will vote. It is the duty of the Administration to be successful. The Republican party will continue in power. If Mr. McKinley fails to carry out his program, the voters will elect the essentials of good government to party name a hostile Congress will be elected in '08, and opposition will elect the President in 1912. The future of the country is not in the hands of the President, further than to say that the political issues of the future depend entirely upon the character of Mr. McKinley's administration."

organizations in the country and permitted nothing to do from the path of honest money and National honor, and it feels especially grateful to its large corps of speakers, at the head of which stood W. Bourke Cockran, whose splendid work has been evidence in many States in a solid Democratic vote of the principles of National honor, integrity and patriotism. The program and the work has been the subject of many telegrams and letters received from many parts of the country thanking the League for its assistance and support, and particularly the speakers. It is evident that too great a value of the work done by the League will be placed on the record.

Major Byrne made a number of speeches in Maryland, his native State, and therefore feels especially proud of the splendid victory gained there.

Among those who listened to the joyful tidings of the success of the League were the following new members of the League were W. Bourke Cockran, ex-Mayors Abram S. Hewitt and Edward Cooper, John G. Thompson, ex-Secretary of the Navy, Crane, John J. Rooney, Frank Travers, Vincent Travers, F. R. Pemberton, Colonel J. E. Bloom, John G. Thompson, ex-Secretary of the Navy, Vinton, John Connolly and Robert A. Kelly.

Congressman John K. Cowan, to whose leadership the League owes its success, has just sent the following telegram to Major Byrne: "To the State and the Union owe you, your League, and the country a debt of gratitude for your great work. I tip my hat to you all."

MR. ELLIGMAN'S HOUSE PARTY.

Jefferson Seligman, the well-known banker of this city, gave a large house party at his home, No. 61 East Fifty-ninth-st., on Election night. The occasion he had a Western Union telegraph instrument with an operator, placed in his house, and as the returns came in, they were read to his assembled guests, numbering 250, who manifested great enthusiasm. Among his guests were Mayor Strong, Police Commissioner McInnis, J. J. Collins and Dr. Lambert. The hotel was handsomely decorated with plants and flowers, and the door and vestibule were beautifully draped with the National colors.
